COUNTY FIFTH AT STATE FAIR

DOUGLAS COUNTY WINNER OF EXPOSITION PRIZE.

SHOW A SUCCESS

Charles D. Bellows, President of the Fair, at Home Today, Says Association Is Pleased.

Nodaway County was fifth in the county attendance contest at the Missouri State Fair at Sedalia last week, according to Nodaway Countians who returned today. Douglas County, which took the lead early in the week, won first place and was awarded $150. Holt County was second, Jackson third, Cole fourth, Lincoln sixth, Andrew seventh and Linn eighth.

Sun Dial, of the Pastime Stables of Maryville, won fourth in the champion saddle stakes for five gaited horses, including both mares and geldings at the horse show. Man-of-the Hour, owned by Herbert M. Woolf of Kansas City, was the winner and won the $2,000 stake for the grand champion saddle horse in the show. Charles D. Bellows of Maryville, president of the state fair, decorated Man-of-the Hour with a large horseshoe wreath.

"The fair was a success both financially and otherwise," said Mr. Bellows who returned to Maryville Saturday night. "The receipts this year were slightly less than those of last year but after considering the three days on which rain fell the fair association was pleased.

"The stock show was bigger this year than ever before and that department of the fair is growing steadily in importance. The exhibits were of a high class and there was much competition for the prizes. The free attractions were of a better type than in past years and there were more of them. The fireworks display also was more elaborate than usual. Considering everything, we had a very good state fair."

R. P. Hosmer, superintendent of the admissions department at the state fair, returned to Maryville late Sunday and today was confined to his home because of a severe cold contracted last week. As in former years that Mr. Hosmer has been in charge of that department of the fair, much praise has been accorded him for the splendid manner in which the department of the Maryville man is handled.

In Mr. Hosmer's department several Nodaway county men were employed. Those from Maryville who worked in the offices of that department were Lowell Compbell, Albert Kuchs and Burt Rowley. Working in the ticket-taking division of Mr. Hosmer's department were Roy Neal, Edward Tindall and Charles Stanfield, of Maryville, Fay Woodson Null, of Ravenwood and Claude Thompson, of Barnard.

D. E. Hotchkin, who was employed in the auditing department of the fair, said that all of the fair officials seemed well satisfied with the manner the exposition was conducted.

"Although it rained most of the time during fair week people continued to visit the exposition," Mr. Hotchkin said. "The exhibits were the largest attraction there partly because the rain greatly hampered a full track program. During the entire fair there was not a trotting race held because of the condition of the track. However, derbies and auto races drew the crowds instead. The derby racers, being better able to run on a soft track, were used to provide the main track program.

"The auto races, of course, drew many persons. I saw the accident Saturday in which the driver of a racing car ran his vehicle off the south end of the race track, crashing through a fence, overturing it upon himself. He died on the way to a hospital."

Burt Rowley is of the opinion that the state should make a free fair out of the exposition and says, "The state should be well able to finance a free fair and in my mind something of the Kansas Free Fair plan should be used. The state fair should be a place where all may attend and exhibit their products in order to encourage the growing of more and better products."

Visitor From Florida.

Mrs. Paul Miller of Sanford, Fla., is a guest at the home of Mr. Miller's parents, Dr. and Mrs. Jesse Miller, sr. The visitor arrived in Maryville Friday. Helen Dorothy Felix of St. Joseph came last night to visit Virginia Miller for a few days.

Dr. Butler Refuses to Become Candidate

Columbia University President Won't Seek Republican Nomination For New York Governorship.

New York, Aug. 23.—Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, president of Columbia University, has declined to become a candidate for the Republican nomination for governor of New York.

Answering suggestions that his name be placed before the party convention, Dr. Butler issued a statement in which he explained that pressure of administrative work at Columbia and with the Carnegie Endowment for peace, prevent his consideration of any candidacy for political office.

COUPLE WED SIXTY YEARS

MR. AND MRS. EZRA DALRYMPLE, PICKERING, HAVE ANNIVERSARY

TEN CHILDREN LIVING

Seven Are Present at Celebration, Together With Several of Grandchildren and Great-Grandchildren

Mr. and Mrs. Ezra A. Dalrymple of Pickering celebrated their sixtieth wedding anniversary yesterday at their home in Pickering when their children, grandchildren, other relatives and neighbors gathered to help them celebrate the occasion. At noon a picnic dinner was served from a long table in the yard and nearly two hundred persons were present. The afternoon was spent in visiting and listening to reminiscences of by-gone days.

It was on August 22, 1866, that Ezra A. Dalrymple, an 18-year-old soldier boy who had but recently been honorably discharged from the Union army, and Martha Blevins, his 16-year-old sweetheart, were united in marriage in the eastern part of what is now Nodaway Township, in this county. Mr. Dalrymple is a native of Nodaway County, while his companion was reared in Indiana, coming to this county in childhood. Their wedded life has all been spent in this county, the greater part of it on a farm near Pickering. They have resided in their present home in Pickering for the past five or six years.

Ten children were born to them, all of whom are living and seven of whom were present at the anniversary gathering.

They have thirty-nine grandchildren and thirty-one great grandchildren living, several of whom were also present.

Their children are David T, of near Pickering; Mrs. Lydia M. Wilder, living in Washington; Chauncey H., of Topeka, Kan.; Willis A., of Maryville; Mrs. Daisy Harrison of McFall, Mo.; Mrs. Grace Wagner of Brighton, Colo.; William A., of Maryville; James B., of Maryville; Ira M., of Grant City; and Mrs. Mary May of Enhield, Cal. Mrs. Wilder, Mrs. Wagner and Mrs. May were unable to be here for the occasion.

Rev. R. A. Mitchell to Conference Soon

Southern Methodist Meeting Will Be Held At Columbia.—Ministers To Be Assigned.

The Rev. R. A. Mitchell, pastor of the M. E. Church, South, of this city, will leave Sept. 7 for Columbia, Mo., where he will attend the annual Missouri conference of the Southern Methodist Church, to be held Sept. 8 to 13. Sunday, Sept. 5, will be the last Sunday of the conference year.

The appointment of ministers will be announced near the close of the annual conference. The Reverend Mr. Mitchell has been pastor here for the last two years and during that time great progress has been made in the church. The church is now undergoing entensive repairs and remodeling and a new pipe organ is to be added.

Dr. E. W. Bishop of Ravenwood is one of the delegates from the St. Joseph district to attend the annual conference. Others will be:

Dr. S. P. Cresap of Nebraska City, Neb., J. R. Ray of Dearborn, Mrs. J. W. Travis of St. Joseph, Mrs. T. A. Allison of Fairfax, S. W. Wells of Savannah, R. W. Fawks of Forest City and Judge W. H. Utz of St. Joseph.

Miss Florence Poteet of Kansas City returned home yesterday after a week's visit with Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Mapel.

MURDERS GIRL, THEN HIMSELF

MISS ELSIE BENGE, MARYVILLE VICTIM IN IOWA TRAGEDY.

JEALOUSY THE CAUSE

T. E. Anderson Believed Infuriated at Favor Shown Rival—Support Also for Suicide Pact Theory.

Miss Elsie Benge, 16, until a short time ago a resident of Maryville, was found murdered early yesterday morning and the dead body of Thomas E. Anderson, 54, her slayer, was found beside hers, in a corn field a mile and a half west of Shambaugh, Ia.

Circumstances, according to both Iowa authorities and the murdered girl's family, clearly indicate that Anderson, inflamed by jealousy, had shot Miss Benge and then had turned the weapon, a 22-valibre revolver, on himself. No inquest will be held, it was announced.

Miss Benge left Maryville five weeks ago, announcing that she had bought a restaurant in Clarinda. It was disclosed yesterday that the sale bill was made to Anderson.

The couple were last seen in Clarinda about 10 o'clock Saturday morning. They drove from Clarinda in Anderson's coupe to a point west of Shambaugh, when the coupe turned into a by-road. The double tragedy was not discovered until after farmers in the vicinity had reported to the sheriff at Clarinda that the car, which they believed might have been stolen, had been standing in the road all day.

Bodies Hidden By Hedge.

The sheriff, investigating, noticed tracks leading from the road through a break in the hedge bordering the road, but there were none returning. In the cornfield, sheltered by the hedge, his flashlight revealed the two bodies, lying on a quilt. The girl had been shot three times in the abdomen and once through the heart. The man had been shot once in the head, and his hand still clutched the revolver.

The weapon contained six empty shells, one of them being unaccounted for.

Maryville authorities were notified, and Miss Ida Benge, head waitress at the Linville Hotel, oldest sister of the victim started for Clarinda at 2 o'clock in the morning, in the rain and over muddy roads. The body was brought to Maryville yesterday afternoon by J. B. Cummins, and funeral services will be held at the Benge home, 1002 East Fourth street, Tuesday afternoon.

Evidence of Struggle

The girl's body was bruised and skinned and there were powder burns, indicating, according to the sister, that there had been a struggle and that the girl had been held by Anderson while he fired the shots. The family believes Miss Benge was carried into the field by Anderson. She had been dead at least twelve hours when the bodies were discovered, a doctor stated.

Neither Miss Benge nor Anderson were well known in Clarinda. The latter was a salesman for the United States Standard Stock Food Co., with headquarters at Westboro. He made sales in the vicinity of Burlington Junction, Elmo and Braddyville, and at times made his home in Burlington Junction. He had never lived in Maryville, as first reported, but was known to county officers, having been arrested and fined once for violation of the motor license laws.

A brother of Anderson lives at Council Bluffs and is district manager of the stock food company. He claimed the man's body today from the morgue at Clarinda, where it had been since the discovery of the crime.

Anderson was known to Miss Benge's family here, but he was regarded only as a friend. A letter was received Saturday afternoon which gave forewarning of an impending tragedy. When it arrived the girl already was dead.

"Going Away," Says Letter

"He (Anderson) is going away, and I am mighty glad," the letter said, adding that there had been a quarrel.

The older sister said the murdered girl "despised" Anderson and tried repeatedly to repulse his attentions.

Recently she had gone with a younger man, and this is believed to have caused Anderson's jealous rage.

While some press dispatches give Anderson's age at 56 and others at 54, the Benge family said he repre-

Auditor of Income Taxes Here Today

Checking Of Returns To State Has Netted Nearly $1,000,000 Additional Says Louis Ratliff.

Louis Ratliff of the income tax department of the state auditor's office at Jefferson City is checking over the state income tax returns of Nodaway County for the years of 1924 and 1925 at the office of Fred W. Smith, county clerk, today. Mr. Ratliff will be joined here, probably Wednesday, by Harry E. Ruether, who will assist in the work. Mr. Ruether is now going over the Gentry County returns. It is expected it will take a week to complete the check here.

The purpose of checking over the returns is to discover any possible errors and improper deductions and to collect the delinquent state income taxes. The last legislature appropriated sufficient money to take care of four auditors for this work and they have already collected nearly $1,000,000. More auditors are needed, Mr. Ratliff said, as practically none of the counties in Northwest Missouri have been visited. Nine other counties in Northwest Missouri are yet to be checked up.

Mr. Ratliff says that in practically every county there are a few errors and erroneous deductions in the returns which are corrected and then the difference is collected. The auditors also go after the delinquent state income taxpayers.

Officers Elected For Farmers Union

Frank Miller, of Hopkins, Again to Head Organization—Election Held Saturday Afternoon

Frank Miller, of Hopkins, was re-elected president of the Nodaway County Farmers Union at a meeting of that organization held Saturday afternoon at the College park. The election of officers followed the afternoon's program of games and athletic events.

Jonah Shields, of Graham was elected president of the organization. The other officers selected at that time was H. W. Bollinger, Hopkins, secretary, and Olin Pistole, was named delegate to the state convention. The place of meeting and the date for the state convention has not yet been announced.

County Committee to Meet Thursday

Republican Chairman Names Day for Organization's Meeting — Sub-Committee Will Report.

E. C. Curfman, chairman of the Republican County Committee, today called a meeting of the committee to meet Thursday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock in Maryville for the purpose of hearing the report of the sub-committee appointed recently in regard to filling out the ticket.

This sub-committee is composed of I. A. Goodson of Ravenwood, W. F. Hartman of near Barnard, and C. G. McMillan of Pickering. It was rumored that this committee may suggest filling out the Republican county ticket and have secured candidates to run for some of the vacancies, which are county judge of the North district, probate judge and prosecuting attorney.

Englewood Bank May Reorganize Soon

Group Attempting To Re-Open Citizens State Bank Must Replace $43,000 Of Notes And Mortgages, However.

Kansas City, Aug. 23.—Replacement of $43,000 of notes and mortgages by cash is one of the demands made by C. E. French, state finance commissioner, in reorganization plans submitted to a group attempting to reopen the defunct Citizens State Bank of Englewood.

In a conference yesterday between the reorganization group and a Kansas City banker, plans were made for taking up this paper with cash.

"Unless something unforseen arises," one of the reorganizing group said, "we hope to be paid over that amount late today."

Rains to Complete General Heat Relief

Kansas City, Aug. 23.—Rains which started yesterday morning, saturating most of the Midwest, including Missouri and Kansas, today will extend into south central Missouri, Oklahoma, Arkansas and the Texas Panhandle.

This will complete the general relief over territory reaching from the Northwest through the Midwest and into the South, which has suffered through the past few weeks from high temperatures and excessive humidity.

NO BLOODSHED IN REVOLUTION

GENERAL PANGALOS DEPOSED AS GREEK DICTATOR

GENERAL KONDYLIS IN

New Regime Now Controlling All Public Buildings and Conducting All State Affairs

Athens, Greece, Aug. 23—General Pangalos, deposed Grecian dictator, was brought back to Athens today a prisoner.

The general was disembarked from the Destroyer Leon and confined in the military prison here, where he will be held until the government to be established by General Kondylis has decided his fate.

A Naval Engagement

Athens, Aug. 23—A naval engagement has taken place between the destroyer Pergamus, on which President-Dictator Pangalos was fleeing, following a revolution headed by General Kondylis, and warships commanded by revolutionary officers, and the deposed dictator was taken to Athens in captivity, for confinement in military prison.

This semi-official announcement, following a lifting of the censorship imposed by Dictator Pangalos, set at rest a number of contradictory reports as to the fate of the deposed ruler.

Although the revolution was bloodless, a clash was threatened when the commander of the garrison at Athens first refused to turn the city over to the revolutionists, but he finally agreed to surrender to General Kondylis, who personally headed a battalion of the revolting troops.

The Kondylis regime and its supporters had control of all public buildings and were conducting all government affairs. All political prisoners who had been arrested and imprisoned on orders of General Pangalos had been liberated.

The populace was generally going about its business as usual today. No disturbances had been reported, although a number of public mass meetings were held, at which enthusiasm was expressed at the overthrow of the Pangalos regime and support was pledged to the Kondylis government.

No Great Change Forecast

London, Aug. 23—The Grecian coup d'etat is merely a change in republican regimes and is no question of a restoration of the monarchy is involved, according to the opinion of former King George of Greece, who is a guest of friends here.

A trend of public sentiment away from the dictatorship was seen by other observers.

"It isn't probable that there will be any far reaching change in the Greek government," said the Daily Mail. "The Greek people have no desire to go back to parliamentarism, which, as practiced in Greece, was utterly inefficient.

Oil Well Drill Now in a Hard Limestone

Drilling all day Sunday, last night and this afternoon had allowed the hope of the Quitman Oil and Gas Company's test well to be lowered only fifteen feet. H. P. Manning, geologist, today said that the black limestone was the hardest yet encountered in the drilling.

The bottom of the shaft is now more than 1500 feet deep. Work of drilling the well was resumed late Saturday after nearly a week had passed with the tools lying idle. It had been necessary to await the arrival of more casing from Kansas City before further drilling was done and that material did not arrive until late last week.

One Catholic Priest to 1800 Laymen

Figures On Contributions Show American Generosity.—New York Alone Gives 14 Million Lire.

Rome, Italy, Aug. 23.—Statistics recently published here show that there are 312,000 Catholic priests in the world at the present time, of whom 200,324 live in Europe, or about one priest for every 1800 inhabitants.

Figures regarding the contributions made by the various countries of the world to the Catholic missions for the spreading of Faith throw American generosity in a strong light. The archdiocese of New York alone gathered for the missions the sum of 14 million lire in 1925.

THE CURTAIN ON VALENTINO

NOTED MOVIE "SHEIK" DIES JUST AFTER NOON.

TO THE END, SMILING

"I Want the Sunshine to Greet Me," He Says To Friends As Death Approaches.

New York, Aug. 23.—Rudolph Valentino died at 12:10 p. m. today.

The original movie "sheik" succumbed after a bitter struggle against a complication of diseases which followed a hurried operation for appendicitis more than a week ago.

Valentino, the idol of millions of motion picture fans throughout the world, to the end was the gay, brave hearted adventurer who charmed countless theater audiences. As undanuted as in the film romances in which he starred, he approached the dark hours. As they grew darker and darker, he turned with a wane smile to the friends at his bedside and said:

"Don't pull the curtain down yet. I'm feeling fine, and I want the sunlight to greet me."

The official announcement of the star's death was made by S. George Ullman, his personal representative. The cause was given as septic poisoning which affected the heart.

At the bedside were Ullman, Joseph Schenck, of the United Artists Corporation, Father Edward Leonard, Catholic prelate, Father Conjedo, a friend of Valentino during his boyhood, and his four attending physicians.

Saline injections in the chest were resorted to Sunday to counteract pleurisy which developed in the left chest Saturday night, causing a relapse after it was believed Valentino had passed the crisis. He was operated on a week ago for appendicitis and gastric ulcer, and developed local peritonitis, which was said to have spread Saturday.

Medical Plane Down.

Garden City, L. I., Aug. 23.—A Curtis racing plane, carrying from Detroit to New York a supply of salosex, an antiseptic, for Rudolph Valentino, made a forced landing in Ithaci, N. Y., Sunday afternoon. Heavy fog over the mountains near Binghampton, N. Y., had made it impossible to continue the flight, according to word received at the Curtis flying field here.

British Strikers Go Back to Coal Mines

Although Tie-Np Has Not Been Ended Officially, Local Agreements Cause Large Desertions.

London, Aug. 23—Thousands of British miners returned to their work today, although the coal strike continues in effect officially.

The miners are accepting local agreements without regard to the efforts of the leaders to effect a national agreement. It is estimated that 35,000 miners will be working by Saturday, as many continued to sign under local agreements.

The return to work is most general in the Midland pits.

Week-end efforts of the leaders of the miners federation to check the return to work have apparently not been any too successful. It is reported that the miners' federation may seek new negotiations for the settlement of the strike tomorrow, although the operators are disinclined to open negotiations while the present efforts toward local agreements are successful.

Mr. and Mrs. D. M. Hughes and daughters, Miss Ruth Hughes, and Mrs. Fred Markt and son, Rex, of Pickering, left yesterday to visit relatives at Waterloo, Ia.

A RELIGIOUS PEACE SOON?

MEXICAN PRESS OPTIMISTIC FOLLOWING JOINT PARLEY.

MAY RESUME RITES

Spokesman for Clergy Says Joy Only Partly Justified But a Better Understanding Gained. Peace?

Mexico City, Aug. 23.—One soldier is dead and six persons were injured as the result of a riot in the national stadium during the course of a track meet today.

During the course of the meet, rival groups of students were over ardent in their demonstrations and met in the street outside to settle their difficulties, using sticks and clubs.

Soldiers were rushed to the scene and fired over the heads of the brawlers. Several of the students replied with more deadly intent and the casualties resulted before order could be restored.

Mexico City, Aug. 23.—The Mexican press today, almost unanimously, predicts that religious services in Roman Catholic churches will be resumed and that the religious struggle between the episcopate and the government will be terminated as a result of the conference between President Calles and two Catholic prelates, Archbishop Ruiz and Bishop Diaz.

Bishop Diaz, acting as spokesman for the prelates, in conversations with International News Service representatives said the optimism of the newspapers was only partly justified in view of all that transpired at the conference.

The bishop said President Calles spoke with the utmost frankness and that he invited the others to do likewise. As a result of this frankness, Bishop Diaz said, each side gained a better understanding of the other's purposes. The discussion lasted for more than an hour, during which all phases of the dispute were entered.

It was agreed that the episcopate should prepare at least one and possibly more proposals for submission to the federated congress at its regular session, and also that the episcopate should have free access to the courts for a ruling on the constitutionality of the government's religious rulings.

President Calles did not ask for immediate resumption of the religious services, the bishop said.

RADIO FOR THE SICK

A big new hospital, boasting of the most modern equipment, is going to have "a radio at every bed." All that will be necessary to listen to programs from all over will be to have the nurse plug into the wall socket behind the bed.

That may encourage people to get sick and go to hospitals. Whether it will make the patients well quicker than usual is another question. Undoubtedly it will help many a convalescent by enabling him to while away the time and forget his symptoms. But suppose the patients all decide to listen in at the same time, and all choose different stations?

KIND WORDS FOR COMICS.

The newspaper "funnies" have been subjected to so much criticism and abuse that it is a relief to hit upon this altogether different view from Dr. Garry C. Myers, a university lecturer on child psychology. Perhaps the good fathers, mothers and aunts who think the funny pages are ruining the children's minds and morals will be good enough to read his words.

"I'm tremendously interested in the funnies," says this authority. "They teach child psychology as well as a textbook."

That is to say, they teach parents to understand children. For these "dreadful" comic characters, be it assured, are real kids—otherwise they would never interest flesh-and-blood kids as they do. Study them, and you will gain understanding and large charity for children.

As for the effect on the boys and girls themselves:

"It's a wonderful pulling power these funnies have. You just can't keep the kids away from them. And you might as well not try.

"Say all you will against the funnies: They use bad English often; they're not good art, maybe; they cause eyestrain when read on the floor in poor light the way most children read them; sometimes they suggest disobedience.

"But the good they do far overbalances all that.

"The funnies are the greatest thing in the world to teach reading. I know that from experience with my own boy. Couldn't get him to read until he got hold of the funnies. Then he went ahead by leaps and bounds. He wanted to read.

"If a paper were to set about and deliberately try to teach reading in the comic page, it could do more than the whole school system. And I wouldn't be surprised if in the schools of tomorrow, the child learns most of his reading from newspapers."

Furthermore, says Dr. Myers, the funnies are "universal play." They give young and old alike a chance to relax and forget their troubles. And that in itself, he observes, has a moral as well as a healthful value. "Every time we laugh, we stop being angry." Also we stop being resentful, suspicious, jealous and otherwise narrow and disagreeable.

The laughs raised by the funny pages are like wholesome, cleansing breezes in such homes as are not perfect without them. And were it not that editors in general have had a feeling that the comics really promoted human welfare along with daily circulation, they would never have gone in for them as they have.

Independent Banking System Is Menaced?

Chicago, Aug. 23—The fate of the American system of independent banks will be seriously menaced by a further spread of branch banking, according to Representative Otis Wingo of Arkansas, who spoke here today before a group of Chicago and Middle Western bankers at a luncheon given in his honor at the Union League Club.

Stewart's WASHINGTON LETTER

By Charles P. Stewart.
NEA Service Writer.

Washington.—President Coolidge will have a very turbulent 70th Congress on his hands if the Democratic party makes a creditable showing in the November elections.

Just now the Democratic leaders think they stand a good fighting presidential chance for 1928.

Badly beaten again in November, their hopes for 1928 will fade. They won't be much of an "opposition." They may do some shadow boxing, but there'll be little emphasis behind their punches.

But let them get a reasonable amount of November encouragement and they'll be truly bloodthirsty.

A creditable Democratic showing in November means control, between Democrats and insurgent Republicans, of the Senate at least.

The House of Representatives doesn't matter so much. The Democrats must gain some seats there, in order to show that they're on the up grade, but to expect them to produce an actual majority is asking a good deal at the present stage of the game.

In the Senate, however, so few votes will shift the balance that the Democratic-insurgent combination can hardly gain anything at all without shifting it.

A good many Democrats are not particularly enthusiastic about controlling both houses in the 70th Congress.

It would tie the president's hands, certainly, but that's just it—he'd be in a position to say they were tied. But if he has a Republican House of Representatives, and a Senate which, but for insurgency in his own ranks, would be Republican—why, that would be ideal, from the Democratic standpoint.

It would tie his hands just as tightly as they'd be tied in the other case, and yet he couldn't very well make any excuses.

FARM GLIMPSES

(By BILLY TILSON)

John Weller of Maitland was transacting business in Maryville Saturday. Mr. Weller can well be called the "Bluegrass King" of this section, he having shipped out twenty-six carloads over 52,000 bushels this year, paying from 80 cents a bushel to $1.50, depending on the grade. John will leave for Portland, Ore., this week to visit his two daughters and rest up for a while.

Hugh O'Donnell, southeast of Arkoe, reports plenty of rain down in that part of the county. Some of the corn will fall short in the yield as it was damaged before the rains. Mr. O'Donnell says conditions are fine for fall plowing and pastures are splendid for stock.

Will Ware and Fred June, northwest of Barnard, were Maryville visitors Saturday. They report that rains have helped the corn wonderfully in those parts and great change is seen in vegetation of all kinds. The ground is in fine shape for plowing and several of the farmers are going to sow wheat this fall.

Harve Pope, of the Skidmore neighborhood, was visiting in Maryville Saturday. He says the farmers are not feeling blue down that way, as crops are looking very fair and a good price is expected this fall.

J. E. Wyatt, southeast of Arkoe, was looking after business interests in the city Saturday. Mr. Wyatt says he sees no reason to complain of the present outlook. His grain made a very good yield and corn is looking good.

Mark DeBord and family, northwest of Barnard, were visiting in the city Saturday. Mark says corn is looking like a fair yield down his way and he has no reason to complain of the prospects well. Mark is a good "feeler" in any and all kinds of weather.

John E. Anderson, the "Uncle Josh" of the Harmony neighborhood, has 35 acres of fine millett, as good a field as one will ever see. He says better times are coming for farmers and in all business lines.

C. W. Lyle and son of Parnell were transacting business in Maryville Saturday. Mr. Lyle thinks a fair yield of corn will be had over that way.

George Auffert, northwest of Parnell, says that part of the county is looking up some since the rains and more corn will be had than was expected. Pastures for stock are looking much better and George says he has seen it a great deal worse.

Charles Miller, northeast of Quitman, is building a new modern house on his farm. It will be of the bungalow style. Mr. James of Burlington Junction is the contractor and has Pete Cornell and Charles Keely of that place helping him. When completed it will add much to the appearance of Charley's farm.

Lee Stafford of Burlington Junction and Miss Margaret Stafford of St. Joseph were guests yesterday of their daughter and sister, Mrs. Henry McComb, and family, near Wilcox.

Lloyd Hartley Here for Visit.

Lloyd Hartley, who teaches shopwork in the high school at Mountain Iron, Minn., is spending a short vacation with his father, George Hartley. Mr. Hartley will return to Mountain Iron for another year.

Myrl Gorman of Chicago returned home last night after a vacation visit at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Beam.

Mrs. Joseph Brown and children, Fredda Josephine and Joe, jr., of Kansas City left this afternoon after a several days' visit with Mrs. Brown's sister, Mrs. Gay Leeper, and her cousin, Fred Kurtz, and family.

Houchens-Aley Wedding.

A romance, that had its inception during high school days, culminated in the marriage yesterday afternoon of Miss Ruth Houchens, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Houchens, to Stanley Aley of Chicago, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Aley of Maryville. The single ring ceremony, at which the bride's father officiated, took place at 3 o'clock at the Houchens home on North Walnut street. Miss Mabel Raines was maid of honor and George Aley acted as best man for his brother. Before the service Miss Raines sang "Believe Me, If All Those Endearing Young Charms." Miss Frances Beinert of Hopkins played the wedding march from "Lohengrin." The bride's gown was of georgette in two shades of green and she carried a bouquet of bride roses. Following the ceremony, light refreshments were served. The guests were limited to members of the two families and a few close friends. Mr. and Mrs. Aley left yesterday afternoon for Chicago where they will be at home. Both bride and bridegroom were graduated from the Maryville High School in the class of 1921. Mrs. Aley is a graduate of the music department of the State Teachers College and has also received her B. S. and A. B. degrees from the same institution. Mr. Aley has a position with the Hall Printing Company of Chicago.

For Oklahoma Guests.

sented himself as "about 40."

Several rather peculiar insurance transactions made recently gave rise at first to a double suicide theory. Anderson, according to Miss Ida Benge, had $7,000 insurance with one company, which he changed last week so that the murdered girl would be the beneficiary. The girl also had some insurance, payable to her family, and both she and Anderson took out additional policies a week ago last Monday. The amount of these policies was not learned. Anderson also had some insurance in the company for which he worked.

The theory of a suicide pact, however, is not borne out in letters written by Miss Benge and in conversations with her last week, when she was home for a visit, the older sister said.

The girl was here to see her mother, who has been seriously ill.

Tried Death Last Week?

Another theory to which the family gives some credence is that Anderson tried to cause the deaths of himself and Miss Benge last Wednesday night, his birthday, in an automobile mishap which was made to appear accidental.

Miss Benge is survived by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. G. F. Benge; four sisters, Ida, Ruth, Gladys and Margaret; four brothers, Franklin, Fred, Robert and George; and her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. M. F. Combs. All are of Maryville except the father, who is working in Gardner, N. D., and who has not yet been reached.

The funeral services, to be held at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon, at the home, will be private. Burial will be made in Miriam cemtery. In the absence of the Rev. Guy L. Prather, pastor of the First Baptist Church, which Miss Benge attended, the Rev. T. J. Puckett, will conduct the services.

Mr. and Mrs. Guy Wood of Maysville, Miss Mae Gannan and Miss Marie Chandler returned yesterday from a ten days' motor trip to Hollister, Mo. Mr. and Mrs. Wood and Miss Gannan are guests at the home of Mrs. Laura Hickman.

Many Golfers From St. Joseph Expected

Forty-two Have Signed to Visit Maryville Country Club Wednesday —Others May Come

Members of the St. Joseph Country Club and the Highland Club of St. Joseph will be entertained Wednesday by the members of the Maryville Country Club. Up to noon today, forty-two players of the St. Joseph club had signified their intention of coming here and it is expected many others will come.

Lunch will be served at the Country Club here for the visitors Wednesday noon. During the afternoon golf will be played, each foursome containing two Maryville players and two St. Joseph players. In the evening a dinner will be given at the Country Club in honor of the visitors.

Dr. Jesse Miller, president of the Country Club, requests all members of the Club to be present and to assist in entertaining the visitors.

A number of members of the local club were recently entertained at the Highland Club in St. Joseph and at that time an invitation was extended for that club to visit Maryville.

Mrs. William H. Pfeiffer, Formerly of Pickering, Succumbed at Home of Mother in Kansas Town.

Word has been received here of the death of Mrs. William H. Pfeiffer of Blue Rapids, Kan., at the home of her mother at Marysville, Kan., Sunday morning. Mrs. Pfeiffer was at St. Francis hospital in this city for three weeks, leaving here only two weeks ago to go to the home of her mother at Marysville to recuperate.

Funeral services will be held at 2:30 o'clock tomorrow afternoon at Blue Rapids. She is survived by her husband, her mother, two sisters, and two brothers.

Mr. and Mrs. Pfeiffer are former residents of Pickering.

Panama Canal Trip Proposed by Club

Shenandoah Kiwanis Club May Sponser Next Tour To New York, Then Cruise To Cuba And California.

(Shenandoah Sentinel)

Questionnaires filled out by the returning excursionists from London, stressed a proposed trip next year to be sponsored by the Kiwanis club, that would lead to Philadelphia, Washington and New York, then a boat trip to Havana, Cuba and through the Panama Canal, up the California coast and cross the continent from the west by rail.

This is not an official plan, only one of the proposed trips to be kept in mind. Another one is a cruise from Havana to the West Indies. Suggestions for a journey were asked.

Other questions dealt with the service on the London voyage, the necessary expense daily and general remarks.

Former Resident Is in Serious Condition

Mrs. Burt M. Rowley received word this morning that her mother, Mrs. Mary Lahr, who is living with another daughter, Mrs. R. C. Green, at Oakland, Cal., had sustained a paralytic stroke. A latter message stated that Mrs. Lahr's condition was growing worse and no hopes are held out for her recovery.

Mrs. Lahr is 73 years old and is a former resident of Maryville.

Mr. Johnson' Sister Dies.

E. W. Johnson received word today of the death of his sister, Mrs. D. H. Williams of North Kansas City, at 2:30 o'clock Saturday morning. Mr. Johnson will not attend the funeral as he returned recently from an eight days' visit with his sister.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Cook of Boise, Idaho, arrived Friday for a visit with relatives in Maryville and Quitman.

Dr. Charles W. Eliot Dies at Age of 92

President Emeritus of Harvard University Succumbs At Home In Maine.

Northeast Harbor, Me., Aug. 23.—Dr. Charles W. Eliot, president emeritus of Harvard university, died at his summer home here Sunday. He was 92 years old.

Dr. Eliot had been in delicate health since he came here early in the summer and had been confined to the house of late. He had spent his summers at Northeast Harbor since the early 80s.

The end came peacefully late yesterday.

Funeral services will be in the Union church here Tuesday at noon, and services will be also in Appleton chapel at Harvard university, Cambridge, Wednesday.

Dr. Eliot's son, the Rev. Samuel A. Eliot of Cambridge, Mass., also has his summer residence here and was present at the end.

Dr. Eliot was president of Harvard for forty years, from 1869 to 1909. A notable event in his career after his retirement as an active educator was the celebration of his 90th birthday, when he received the felicitations and tributes of educators and Harvard men from all parts of the world.

Even after passing his 90th birthday, Dr. Eliot appeared occasionally as a speaker at public meetings and frequently expressed his opinions on subjects of public interest. In April, 1924, he led a group of Cambridge home owners in a successful protest against the erection of apartment houses in the quiet neighborhood where he lived. The following month he took issue with President Nicholas Murray Butler of Columbia university, on the subject of prohibition, expressing his belief the Volstead act was working efficiently. In the debate he disclosed that he himself had become a teetotaler at 83.

In June, 1924, with Elihu Root and Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes, he received the Roosevelt medal conferred "for leadership of youth and development of American character."

Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Remus and daughter, Frances, left yesterday for Broken Bow, Neb., where they will visit Mrs. Remus' brother, Dr. H. B. Landis, and family, for a few days.

Mr. and Mrs. James Cummings and Mrs. Hattie Younger motored to Rea yesterday afternoon to visit Mr. and Mrs. William Younger.

CARDINALS AT PIRATE HEELS

FRACTION OF POINT SEPARATES NATIONAL LEAGUE LEADERS

UNDEFEATED IN WEEK

St. Louis Team Compiles Eight Straight Victories in Bitter Fight to Win First Baseball Pennant

The St. Louis Cardinals, by winning yesterday over New York Giants by a score of 4 to 2, are only a fraction of a point behind Pittsburgh, who is leading the National League. Two teams in the National League went through the week without defeat, St. Louis and Cincinnati.

By far the outstanding achievement was that of the Cardinals, fighting bitterly for St. Louis' first pennant. Rogers Hornsby sent his youngsters, Rhem, Keen, Reinhart and Sherdel, to the mound and they were victorious. And the veterans, Jess Haines and Grover Alexander, gave him well pitched victories. The Cardinals won eight contests and were not beaten during the eight days.

They scored twice as many runs as their opponents, they hit harder than any team in the circuit expect Brooklyn, which destroyed its splendid offensive at the plate with poor fielding. They committed only five errors. The result was that the Cardinals locked with Pittsburgh at the top of the standing, only to fall a half game in the rear when the Pirates won twice Saturday. Then Sunday St. Louis' winning while Pittsburgh was not playing advanced the Cardinals within a fraction of the lead.

The heated race in the National, which now bids fair to extend into the last days of the season, has caused dissension to crop out on various clubs and several changes have been made. Frank Frisch of the Giants, considered one of the second base stars, failed to appear with his team Saturday in St. Louis but returned to New York. Max Carey of the Cincinnati Reds went to Brooklyn after being cleared by the league president on charges of interfering with the management of his team. Rabbit Maranville, veteran short stop who gained fame in the Boston Braves pennant rush of 1914, was released by Brooklyn.

Cincinnati won six games without a loss and fought Boston to a fourteen inning 2-2 tie on Saturday. The Reds won both games Sunday from Boston. The Reds are right on the heels of the leaders and their great pitching staff appears to be returning to form. The New York Giants were a disappointing club and their hopes for a pennant have been abandoned. They won only one of six starts, scoring only 8 runs on 38 hits.

Spaniards Now Have Large Gold Reserve

Madrid Aug. 23—Spain, although enjoying a modest trade compared with the great Powers, nevertheless holds in the vaults of the Bank of Spain a hoard of gold surpassed, in Europe, only by the gold reserves of London and Paris.

Outside of Europe, Spain is distanced only by New York and Tokyo. The nation's gold reserve is today estimated at around $505,000,000.

Before the war her gold reserve was $95,000,000. She began drawing gold from the United States during the war until now she has become what the London money-market calls a "gold trap."

Japanese Criticizes Way Women Dress

Tokyo, Aug. 23—Rigid control of women's costume, particularly in summer-time, is advocated editorially by the Tokyo "Yamato" which declares:

"Western women go half-naked even on the streets, on board steamers and in railway cars, provoking the sex instinct, but the police authorities do not feel disposed to control them. As control is an absolute necessity, discrimination is unreasonable and illogical. It should be rigid in all cases."

The paper deplores imitation of Western fashions by Japanese women who are rapidly abandoning the kimono in all the large cities.

Measure Vibrations by Aid of Cameras

Washington, Aug. 23—A vacuum tube and a highspeed camera are being utilized by U. S. Bureau of Standards experts to measure the vibrations of a gun-muzzle during its discharge.

In experiments still continuing, it was found that a light coating of oil in the gun-barrel caused the gun to shoot high, and that other things being equal, muzzle vibrations increase as the powder charge was made lighter. It is hoped to evolve a formula for bullets and barrels which will cut inaccuracy to the minimum.

The GIRL in the MIRROR

By Elizabeth Jordan

COPYRIGHT BY THE CENTURY CO.[PANY]

THE STORY.

CHAPTER I.—Barbara Devon's wedding and departure of her honeymoon leaves her brother "Laurie," successful playright but somewhat inclined to wildness, without her restraining influence. His theatrical associates, Rodney Bangs and Jacob Epstein, promise to "keep an eye on him."

CHAPTER II. — Laurie, who is wealthy, refuses to settle down to work, announcing his intention of resting and seeking "adventure." From his window in New York he sees the reflection of a beautiful girl in a mirror in the house opposite.

CHAPTER III.—Devon learns from the elevator boy in the girl's house that her name is Mayo. Again in the mirror's reflection he sees her with a revolver and fears she means to commit suicide. He breaks into her apartment and, winning her confidence, induces her to lunch with him, though she warns him of "danger."

CHAPTER IV.—Perceptibly agitated by the arrival of a man in the restaurant, she mutters that he has "found her." Learning that she is unmarried and the man has no claim on her, Laurie, incensed, accosts the stranger.

CHAPTER V.—Accusing the man of annoying Miss Mayo, Devon warns him to end his espionage. The stranger is politely sarcastic, but from him Laurie learns the girl's first name is Doris. She tells him her persecutor is Herbert Ransome Shaw.

Chapter VI.—To Louise Ordway, his invalid sister-in-law, and firm friend, Laurie admits he is "interested" in Doris, not revealing her identity.

CHAPTER VII.—Doris resolutely declines to meet Mrs. Ordway, and sternly vetoes Laurie's suggestion of applying to the police to protect her from Shaw.

CHAPTER VIII.—With Rodney Bangs, young Devon calls on Mrs. Ordway again, but only Rodney is admitted to the sick-room. His visit perceptibly cheers the invalid.

CHAPTERIX.—Laurie has Doris agree to place a bright-hued scarf in her window, which he can see from his own, as a signal she needs help. Accosting Shaw, Devon, at his invitation, accompanies him to his rooms. There he meets another man, Shaw's "secretary." Shaw demands that Laurie stop interfering in Miss Mayo's affairs, and Devon's determined refusal results in a general fistic mixup, during which Laurie is chloroformed.

CHAPTER X.—Laurie recovers consciousness next morning in a cellar, from which he makes his escape. From his room he sees the signal of distress hanging from Doris' window.

"Shaw will threaten," this voice said. "He will fight, and he will even chloroform. But when it comes to a showdown, to the need of definite, final action of any kind, he simply won't be there. He is venomous, he'd like to bite, but he has no fangs, and he knows it."

The vision of Shaw's face, when he had choked him during the struggle of last night, again recurred to Laurie. He knew now the meaning of the look in those projecting eyes. It was fear. Though he had carried off the rest of the interview with entire assurance, during that fight the creature had been terror-stricken.

"He'll have reason for fear the next time I get hold of him," Laurie reflected, grimly. But that fear was of him, not of Doris. What might not Doris be undergoing, even now?

He went to the little safe in the wall of his bedroom, and took from it all the ready money he found there. Oh, if only Rodney were at home! But Mr. Bangs had gone out, the hall man said. He also informed Mr. Devon that his car was at the door.

The need of consulting Rodney increased in urgency as the difficulties multiplied. Laurie telephoned to Bangs' favorite restaurant, to Epstein's office, to Sonya's hotel. At the restaurant he was suavely assured that Mr. Bangs was not in the place. At the office the voice of an injured office boy informed him that there wasn't never nobody there till half-past nine. Over the hotel wire Sonya's colorful tones held enough surprise to remind Laurie that he could hardly hope that even Rodney's budding romance would drive him to the side of the lady so early in the morning.

He hung up the receiver with a groan of disgust, and busied himself packing a small bag and selecting a greatcoat for his journey. Also, he went to a drawer and took out the little pistol he had taken away from Doris in the tragic moment of their first meeting.

Holding it in his hand, he hesitated. Heretofore, throughout his short but varied life, young Devon had depended upon his well-trained fists to protect him from the violence of others. But when those others were the kind who went in for chloroform—and this time there was Doris to think of. He dropped the revolver into his pocket, and shot into the elevator and out on the ground floor with the expedition to which the operator was now becoming accustomed.

His car was a two-seated "racer," of slender and beautiful lines. As he took his place at the wheel, the machine pulsated like a living thing, panting with a passionate desire to be off. Laurie's wild young hear felt the same longing, but his year in New York had taught him respect for its traffic laws and this was no time to take chances. Carefully, almost sedately, he made his way to Third avenue, then up to the Queensboro bridge, and across that mighty runway to Long Island. Here his stock of patience, slender at the best, was exhausted. With a deep breath he "let her out" to a singing speed of sixty miles an hour.

A cloud had obscured the sun, quite appropriately, he subconsciously felt, and there were flakes of snow in the air. As he sped through the gray atmosphere, the familiar little towns he knew seemed to some forward to meet him, like rapidly projected pictures on a screen. Flushing, Bayside, Little Neck, Manhasset, Roslyn, Glenhead, one by one they floated past. He made the run of twenty-two miles in something under thirty minutes, to the severe disapproval of several policemen, who shouted urgent invitations to him to slow down. One of these was so persistent that Laurie prepared to obey; but just as the heavy hand of the law was about to fall, its representative recognized young Devon, and waved him on with a forgiving grin. This was not the first time Laurie had "burned up" that stretch of roadway.

He Made the Run of Twenty-Two Miles in Something Under Thirty Minutes.

At the Sea Cliff station he slowed up; then, on a sudden impulse, stopped his car at the platform with sharp precision and entered the tiny waiting-room. From the ticket window a pretty girl looked out on him with the expression of sudden interest feminine eyes usually took on when this young man was directly in their line of vision. With uncovered curly head deferentially bent, he addressed her. Had she happened to notice a dark limousine go by an hour or so before, say around half-past eight or nine o'clock? The girl shook her head. She had not come on duty until nine, and even if such a car had passed she would hardly have observed it, owing to the frequency of the phenomenon and her own exacting responsibilities.

Laurie admitted that these responsibilities would claim all the attention of any mind. But was there any one around who might have seen the car, and one, say, who made a speciality of lounging on the platform and watching the pulsations of the town's life in this its throbbing center? No, the girl explained, there were no station loafers around now. The summer was the time for them.

Then perhaps she could tell him if there were any nice old houses for rent near Sea Cliff, nice old houses, say, overlooking the Sound, and a little out of the town? Laurie's newly acquired will power was proving its strength. With every frantic impulse in him crying for action, for knowledge, for relief from the intolerable tension he was under, he presented to the girl the suave appearance of a youth at peace with himself and the hour.

The abrupt transitions of the gentleman's interest seemed to surprise the lady. She looked at him with a suspicion which perished under the expression in his brilliant eyes. What he meant, Laurie soberly explained, was the kind of house that might appeal to a casual tourist who was passing through, and who had dropped into the station and there had suddenly realized the extreme beauty of Sea Cliff. The girl laughed. She was a nice girl, he decided, and he smiled back at her; for now she was becoming helpful.

Yes, there was the Varick place, a mile out and right on the water's edge. And there was the old Kiehl place, also on the Sound. These were close together and both for rent, she had heard. Also, there was a house in the opposite direction, and one the water's edge. She did not know the name of that house, but she had observed a "To Let" sign on it last Sunday when she was out driving. Those were all the houses she knew of. She gave him explicit instructions for reaching all three, and the interview ended in an atmosphere of mutual regard and regret. Indeed, the lady even left her ticket office to follow the gentleman to the door and watch the departure of his chariot.

Laurie raced in turn to the Varick place and the Kiehl place. Shaw, he suspected, had probably rented some such place, just as he had rented the East side office. But a very cursory inspection of the two old houses convinced him that they were tenantless. No smoke came from their chimneys, no sign of life surrounded them; also, he was sure, they were not sufficiently remote from other houses to suit the mysterious Shaw.

The third house on his list was more promising in appearance, for it stood austerely remote from its neighbors. But on its soggy lawn two soiled children and a dog played in carefree abandon, and from the side of the house came the piercing whistle of an underling cheerily engaged in sawing wood and shouting cautions to the children. Quite plainly, the closed-up shuttered place was in charge of a caretaker, whose offspring were in temporary inspection of its grounds. Laurie inspected other houses, dozens of them. He made his way into strange, new roads. Nowhere was there the slightest clue leading to the house he sought.

It was one o'clock in the afternoon when, with an exclamation of actual anguish, he swung his car around for the return journey to the station. For the first time the hopelessness of his mission came home to him. There must be a few hundred houses on the Sound near Sea Cliff. How was he to find the right one?

Perhaps that girl had thought of some other places, or could direct him to the best local real estate agents. Perhaps he should have gone to them in the first place. He felt dazed, incapable of clear thought.

As the car swerved his eye was caught by something bright lying farther up the road, in the direction from which he had just turned. For an instant he disregarded it. Then, on second thought, he stopped the machine, jumped out, and ran back. There at the right, by the wayside, lay a tiny jagged strip of silk that seemed to blush as he stared down at it.

Slowly he bent, picked it up, and, spreading it across his palm, regarded it with eyes that unexpectedly were wet. It was a two-inch bit of the Roman scarf, hacked off, evidently, by the same hurried scissors that had severed the end in his pocket. He realized now what that cutting had meant. With her hare-and-hounds' experience in mind, Doris had cut off other strips, perhaps half a dozen or more, and had undoubtedly dropped them as a trail for him to pick up. Possibly he had already unseeingly passed several. But that did not matter. He was on the right track now. The house was on this road, but farther up.

He leaped into the car again and started back. He drove very slowly, forcing the reluctant racer to crawl along, and sweeping every inch of the roadside with a careful scrutiny, but he had gone more than a mile before he found the second scent. This was another bit of the vivid silk, dropped on a country road that turned off the main road at a sharp angle. With a heartfelt exclamation of thanksgiving, he turned into this bypath.

It was narrow, shallow-rutted, and apparently little used. It might stop anywhere, it might lead nowhere. It wound through a field, a meadow, a bit of deep wood, through which he saw the gleam of water. Then, quite suddenly, it again widened into a real road, merging into an avenue of trees that led in turn to the entrance of a big dark-gray house, in a somber setting of cedars.

Laurie stopped his car and thoughtfully nodded to himself. This was the place. He felt that he would have recognized it even without that guiding flame of ribbon. It was so absolutely the kind of place Shaw's melodramatic instincts would lead him to choose.

There was the look about it that clings to houses long untenanted, a look not wholly due to its unkempt grounds and the heavy boards over its windows. It had been without life for a long, long time, but somewhere in it, he knew, life was stirring now. From a side chimney a thin line of smoke curled upward. On the second floor, shutters, newly unbolted, creaked rustily in the January wind. And, yes, there it was; outside of one of the unshuttered windows, as if dropped there by a bird, hung a vivid bit of ribbon.

Rather precipitately Laurie backed his car to a point where he could turn it, and then raced back to the main road. His primitive impulse had been to drive up to the entrance, pound the door until some one responded, and then fiercely demand the privilege of seeing Miss Mayo. But that, he knew, would never do. He must get rid of the car, come back on foot, get into the house in some manner, and from that point meet events as they occurred.

Facing this prospect, he experienced an incredible combination of emotions—relief and panic, recklessness and caution, fear an elation. He had found her. For the time being, he frantically assured his trembling inner self, she was safe. The rest was up to him, and he felt equal to it. He was intensely stimulated; for now, at last, in his ears roared the rushing tides of life.

HEREDITARY ILLS CAN BE OVERCOME

Have a Definite Object in Life, Apply Yourself to It Assiduously ,and Do Not Worry Over Things You Cannot Remedy.

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.
United States Senator From New York.
Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Have you ever given thought to the effect on your health of liking your job? The Medical Director of the Massachusetts Society for Mental Hygiene has prepared a folder of advice containing a lot of wholesome suggestions for good health. His first thought is this:

"One first should have a definite object in life—in other words, a job. Then learn to enjoy the work. Conceive it as a form of service to others. That brings happiness."

It brings more than happiness. It brings health. To enjoy your work means you will do it without getting a headache. The joy of it will stimulate your heart and send it coursing through the body, instead of having it stagnate in parts.

In the same list of suggestions for gaining and keeping health is another wise thought. I want you to hear it. It is this:

"Do not worry. If you have no control over the object of your worry, force yourself not to dwell on it. If you exercise some control over it, make a plan for dealing with it and then carry it out."

One particular worry is referred to in these words, "Don't worry about poor heredity in your family."

I am glad this was mentioned because it is an almost universal worry. Your grandmother had cataract. Your uncle on your mother's side had cancer. Your father had a touch of tuberculosis. Such fears or similar ones convey many minds. Worrying over bad heredity is a common worry.

Nature is too kind to give you disease because your ancestors had it. You have the same kind of a body and are likely to live the same kind of a life as other members of your family. But that is all heredity and association have to do with your prospects of health or disease.

Instead of worrying over your heredity, exert yourself to prevent having the disease you dread. You can escape it if you will.

One of the best ways to get pink cheeks, red lips, sparkling eyes and vigorous health is to avoid worry as you would the small-pox. The surest way to avoid worry and to be happy is to be busy with a job you like.

A life without a definite object is like a ship without a rudder. It isn't going anywhere. It is rendering no useful service, so it cannot be a happy life. Pretty soon disease will come along to add physical suffering to mental misery.

No one should be a slave to his job. Work is a pleasure if it is voluntary, but when it becomes drudgery it is harmful to body and soul.

But work cannot be successful and the satisfaction of success cannot be achieved, unless the job is given daily, sustained and attentive application. The joy of work is the joy of results achieved. It is this kind of accomplishment which brings mental content and physical well being.

Select your job as best you can, but whatever the job is put your soul into it. Then you will have happiness and good health. Your job well done and your companionship worth while will make you contented, prosperous and healthy.

Answers To Health Queries.

Anxious V. Q.—How can I reduce?

A.—Weight reduction is chiefly a matter of self-control as regards the diet. Fresh air and regular exercise are both essential. For full particulars send a self-addressed, stamped envelope and repeat your question.

M. F. W. Q.—What causes me to wake up during the night and find that my hands and feet are numb?

A.—This condition is probably due to poor circulation, caused by a generally run-down state of health. Try to build up your entire system by correct eating and proper intestinal elimination. For full particulars send self-addressed, stamped envelope and repeat your question.

J. D. Q.—What would you suggest for hardened wax in the ear?

A.—See a doctor. It is never wise to tamper with the delicate tissues in the ears.

Mr. McM. Q.—What causes falling hair, and how can it be stopped?

A.—The general health plays an important part in this trouble. Build yourself up and keep your hair and scalp immaculately clean and healthy by careful shampooing and the use of a good hair tonic. For further particulars send a self-addressed stamped envelope and repeat your question.

Fur Sales Opening Throughout Country

Some Fur Coats Are Being Offered At Prices Low At $125.—Attractive Discount On Others.

By HEDDA HOYT
(Written for the United Press).

New York, Aug. 23.—August fur sales are opening simultaneously in stores throughout the United States and many people are taking advantage of the reduction in prices at this time. Special groups of fur coats are being sold as low as $145 in several New York shops.

These include gray kid, caracul, seal-dyed coney, pony, natural muskrat and silver muskrat. Medium-priced models including gray caracul trimmed with platinum fox, ermine-dyed coney with squirrel, cocoa-dyed squirrel, Hudson seal trimmed in nutria or black fox, bronze sheared lamb with beige squirrel collar, and mink-dyed marmot sell from $195 to $350.

Sports fur coats are those which seem to be selling best at present. These include caracul, racoons, pony, muskrat, leopard, sheared lamb and gray kid. Novelty furs are also much in demand, including giraffe stenciled kid, snowflecked squirrel and reversible models.

Most shops are offering at least 20 per cent discount on fur-garments purchased at this time. In addition to this offer they agree to give one year free storage. Installment payments are also offered by some of the moderately priced specialty shops.

Furriers believe that this will be one of the largest fur seasons due to the fact that so many good-looking models are being sold at low prices. Mendoza beaver, for instance, is selling as low as $100. Caracul, natural muskrat, northern sealions trimmed with squirrel and Persian paws are selling as low as $150 in some shops. Of course, one can't judge entirely by the prices quoted here since quality has much to do with the cost of a fur garment. There are caracauls which sell as high as $1,000. Others sell for $125. Even low-priced garments should give two years' wear, which brings them within the means of everyone.

In buying higher-priced coats one should avoid novelty furs and silhouettes. Straight-lined coats with medium-sized collars and sleeves are those which can be worn for years without alteration.

Where Coolidge Keeps Cool

UP on the wooded slopes of the Adirondacks during the long, hot days of July, the President of the United States has established his Summer "White House".

The famous Kirkwood estate with its sylvan seclusion has been invaded by secret service men, servants, clerks, stenographers, visitors—and reporters. Telegraph wires thread through the ancient trees and the click of the sounder vies with the woodpecker's r-r-r-r-r-rat-a-tat-tat.

With the President is J. H. Montgomery, UNITED PRESS reporter of the Washington Bureau who each day files the news story from the Coolidge summer home, which you read in this newspaper.

Of the major news-gathering organizations, the UNITED PRESS is one of the largest. Actually the UNITED PRESS is a great international importing and exporting business, in which facts are the cargo and radio, telegraph wires and cables are the carriers.

The UNITED PRESS directly serves newspapers in thirty-six nations and operates more than 85,000 miles of leased wires on the North American continent alone.

The newspaper which prints news "BY UNITED PRESS" is always a distinguished newspaper.

LEADERS TALK CHURCH UNION

100 DENOMINATIONS REPRESENTED AT SWITZERLAND MEETING.

TO CALL CONFERENCE

Great World Conclave Next Year Will Seek To Eliminate Minor And Unnecessary Differences.

Berne, Switzerland, Aug. 23.—Fifty religious leaders representing nearly 100 Christian denominations in every section of the world, met here today to perfect plans for a world conference to smooth out interdenominational differences.

Today's gathering, known as the "Continuation Committee," expects to draft a program of topics to be discussed at the great World Conference on Faith and Order to be held in August, 1927, at Lauzanne. Recommendations and suggestions from 87 nation-wide autonomous churches have been submitted to the committee whose chief duty will be to organize these views and prepare a program for the orderly procedure of the World Conference.

"The baneful consequences of present divisions among Christians are clear to all and the hopeful feature of the situation is that Christians everywhere are realizing this," said the Rt. Rev. William T. Manning, Episcopal Bishop of New York, a member of the committee, in discussing the aims of the movement.

It was made clear by spokesmen for the committee that there was no thought as yet of a formal or official union of Christian churches or that the program of closer cooperation was expected to obliterate denominational lines. The chief aim of the World Conference was said to be an endeavor to eliminate minor unnecessary differences among Christian churches and to strive for closer coordination.

Five main topics of theology already studied by a sub-committee will be considered by the committee. These are "The Nature of God," "The Church's Ministry," "The Sacraments," "The Unity of Christendom and the Place of Different Churches Within It." The committee plans to organize these subjects into a program of discussion or recommendations representing the opinion of the representatives there assembled. This report will then be sumbitted to all the Trinitarian churches of the world as suggestions and without any binding force upon the communions represented at the conference.

Among the sub-topics under these five main subjects is the proposal to agree upon uniform marriage laws to be recognized and enforced by all churches.

Churches which have already appointed commissions to cooperate with the World Conference movement include: The Anglican, Armenian, Baptist, Congregational, Czechoslovak, Disciples, Eastern Orthodox, Friends, German Evangelical, Lutheran, Moravian, Methodist, Old Catholic, Presbyterian, Reformed, South Indian United, United Brethren, and the United Church of Canada.

The churches represented are in the United States, Canada, the British Isles, Germany, Italy, Norway, Sweden, Denmark, Greece, Serbia, Hungary, Czecholsovakia, Esthonia, Latvia, Roumania, Bulgaria, Cyprus, Egypt, Syria, Palestine, China, Japan, India, South Africa, Australia, and New Zealand.

Tourists in Missouri Pay Million Gas Tax

Improvements In State Roads Have Resulted In Other Untold Benefits Says Piepmeier.

Jefferson City, Mo., Aug. 23.—Tourists through Missouri leave approximately $1,000,000 in the state through gasoline taxes alone during the year, B. H. Piepmeier, chief engineer for the state highway department, estimated after a traffic check on the main roads of the new Missouri highway system.

Improvements made in the state roads have resulted in increasing automobile traffic to almost double, which has brought untold benefits to the state, the chief engineer said.

Excelsior Springs—Stuart Leaming former agent for Ray County, has been chosen county agent for Clay County. He will succeed B. B. Branstetter, who has been the agent for the past two years.

Closing Grain Review.

Chicago, Aug. 23—Grain prices showed good gains over the opening in today's close on the Chicago board of trade.

Wheat advanced ¼ to ½ cent. It was rather a quiet, narrow affair, as there was little in the day's news to influence either the buying or the selling side.

Corn was stronger than wheat, closing 1¼ to 2 cents over Saturday's final prices. While the weather has been fine, the fear that there has been too much rain and that the crop will not get the few weeks of warm, clear weather needed to prevent early frost damage caused the bulge.

The oats pit was neglected but prices advanced ⅛ to ¾ cent in sympathy with other grains.

Provisions closed uneven.

SNAKE DANCE BRINGS RAIN

TORRENTIAL DOWNPOUR FOLLOWS ANNUAL HOPI RITES.

WITNESSED BY WHITES

Rattlers, Teased to Fury, Bury Fangs in Priests' Faces, With No Apparent Effect

Hoteville, Ariz., Aug. 23—True to a tradition of centuries, a torrential rain followed in the wake of the annual Hopi snake dance, held over the week-end.

Within two hours after the weird ceremonial, there was rain. The Hopi rite-performed with tantalized rattlesnakes wrapped about the dancers' necks is the annual tribal prayer for rain and abundant crops.

The ceremony was witnessed by approximately 5,00 white tourists.

Hoteville, Ariz., Aug. 23—The 1926 version of the annual Hopi snake dance—one of the most primitive rituals of all time, is now in progress.

Aside from the presence of 5,000 white spectators, wedged into the square plaza of this little Indian village, the ceremony is as weird and pagan as it was 15 centuries ago.

The dance is performed with more than 100 rattlesnakes, teased to fury by three days of secret ceremonials. Hissing and writhing, the reptiles are carried by the dancing savages around their necks or between their teeth.

It is the Hopi prayer for rain and abundant crops.

The white onlookers, here from all sections of the country, are awe-stricken. The redmen, as they bite and pet the wriggling rattlesnakes, sneer at the palefaces.

The savagery started shortly after sunrise last Saturday, when the priests of the Hopi clan emerged from their underground kiva-a literal bed of rattle snakes, and circled and weaved about the village.

For three days the priests had held secret communion with the rattling reptiles in the underground chambers. Five days were spent in gathering the snakes.

Long before sunrise, the curious palefaces gathered at the mouth of the kiva. From the opening came the chanting of the priests and the hissing and rattling of the "little brothers," the snakes.

During the night the rattlers were washed and prepared for the rites which began on the morning of August 21 and continues for several days.

The main ceremonies were preceded by a dance around the plaza by the priests of the Antelope Clan. They circled the square four times, sprinkling sacred cornmeal and stamping on the ground as they passed the kisi, a small dugout in which the snakes were placed.

Then came the priests of the Snake Clan in a fantastic garb and smeared from head to foot with paint and paste.

After a short introductory ceremony with the Anteleope priests, the Snake priests formed in groups of three. Kneeling before the Kisi, one of the priests drew forth a snake, a large rattler with all his venomous dander up.

Around the plaza they circled, single file, chanting a savage song. The priest with the snake in his mouth had a little trouble when the reptile buried its fangs into his face and shoulders. Once the deadly fangs became stuck in his nose and another dancer helped the snake free itself.

After circling the plaza once, the rattler was released and herded into a pile of the writhing creatures. Another rattler was taken and the ceremony repeated.

For several days the snake dance will continue. Then, at a signal, the priests will rush to the pile of reptiles, each grab a handful, and rush to the desert where they are released to take word to the underworld spirits and ancestors that the Hopis want rain.

And strangely enough, according to old settler hereabouts, the Hopis always get plenty of rain at once.

Maryville Loses to Atchison All-Stars

Game Played Near Quitman Sunday Ended With Score of 1-0.—Pitching Was A Feature.

Playing a good brand of baseball, the Atchison County All-Stars defeated the Maryville Merchants by a score of 1-0 in a game played Sunday afternoon near Quitman. A good crowd attended the match which was staged west of Quitman in Atchison County.

Henry Buhler, pitching for Maryville, did some nice work for his team, getting them out of the hole on three different occasions. Laughlin caught. Maryville made four hits, struck out 11 men and made only one error. A throw from third base to first base fell short and later the All-Stars made a similar error, but Maryville's error proved costly allowing the All-Stars to score later in the inning.

Inman, pitching for the Atchison County nine, struck out twelve men during the game. His team managed to get six hits and scored a lone run after Maryville's one error made such a thing possible.

The work of both pitchers was deserving of much praise, according to those who saw the game, playing consistantly throughout the match. The All-Stars had defeated the Maryville Merchants earlier in the season and the latter team was hopeful of a win.

"Uncle Ike" Morrill Dies at Reeds Springs

Harold Bell Wright Made the Notch, Mo., Postmaster Famous—Had Planned Celebration

Reed Springs, Mo., Aug. 23—"Uncle Ike" Morrill, postmaster at Notch, Mo., who was written into Harold Bell Wright's "The Shepherd of the Hills," died here last night.

"Uncle Ike" was 89 years old Saturday and a big anniversary celebration had been planned. He was taken ill with a heavy cold and asthma, however, and the fete was called off.

A marriage license was issued late Saturday afternoon by Mrs. Mamie Clardy, recorder, to Fred W. Steffes, Wien, Mo., and Rose C. King of Conception.

U. S. Thwarts Mexican Plotters

An attempt of Gen. Enrique Estrada, former Mexican secretary of war, to smuggle arms into Mexico and start an armed revolution against the Calles government was foiled when U. S. agents, enforcing neutrality laws, seized a consignment of arms and upwards of 140 Mexicans on the southern California line. The prisoners are being held at Fort Rosenerans, near San Diego. T at Fort Rosencrans, near San Diego. The upper photo shows a crudely-made armored car, covered with half-inch sheet iron. Capt. J. D. Lockburner, of the marines, is shown at the right. Below is the marine and civilan guard with part of the prisoners.

DENTISTS IN CONVENTION

ARE HOLDING INTERNATIONAL MEET IN PHILADELPHIA

THOUSANDS ATTEND

First International Convention of Tooth Pullers Held in This Country Since 1904

Philadelphia, Aug. 23—A closer relationship between the sciences of dentistry and medicine is expected to result from the deliberations of the Seventh International Dental Congress, which assembles here today.

Dentistry's development as a factor in preventative medicine and its ever increasing importance in disease diagnosis has done much to bring about this relationship, in the opinion of the 15,000 delegates from 21 nations who are here for the sessions.

The present meeting is the first world assembly since 1914, when the Sixth Congress gathered in London, and its deliberations were summarily suspended at the outbreak of the World War. The last international congress in this country was held in St. Louis in 1904 coincidentally with the Louisiana Purchase Exposition.

Dental science was expected to be accorded recognition as a companion in the warfare against disease by famous medical scientists who are guests and speakers at the Congress. Oral hygiene, in the hands of dentists, has been hailed by them as the greatest ally of medicine and surgery.

A large exposition relating to the science, craft and history of dentistry has been planned by the Congress, exhibits for which have been assembled from all over the world. It comprises five divisions, a dental scientific exhibit, a dental historical exhibit, a dental public health exhibit, a government exhibit and a commercial exhibit.

The historical and scientific exhibits are illustrative of the progress of dentistry from even prehistoric times including ancient Egyptian and Etruscan periods, when dental practitioners were first known.

Military dental surgery was to occupy an important part in the exposition. The U. S. Army Dental Corps has a complete display of maxillofacial surgery, the result of war experience of the army dental surgeons.

The German government has been allotted 2,000 square feet for its exhibit, expected to include examples of military dental surgery as developed in that nation and exhibits of commercial and public health dental activities.

An extensive clinical program has been arranged for the week during which the latest strides in dental surgery will be demonstrated. They will be shown by eminent clinicians appointed by the various state advisory committees and the deans of dental schools.

President Coolidge was personally represented at the opening sessions of the Congress. The following men were named by the President officially to represent the United States and the Congress:

U. S. Senator Hendrick Shipstead, Minnesota; Congressman Roy O. Clark, Mich.; Lieut. Commander W. L. Darnell, U. S. N.; all of whom are dentists, and the following dentists of national repute: Col. William H. G. Logan, president of the International Dental Congress; Dr. Otto U. King, secretary general of the Congress; Dr. Trueman W. Brophy; Dr. Henry L. Banzahf; Dr. W. A. Giffin; Dr. H. D. Friesell, and Dr. Sheppard W. Foster, the latter president of the American Dental Association.

Misses Zola and Zela Colwell returned Friday from a two weeks' visit with relatives in Craig and Fairfax.
